WHISPER THIS IN MY EAR:

O MY God, I am heartily sorry for having offended Thee, and I detest all my sins because I dread the loss of heaven and the pains of hell; but most of all because they offend Thee, my God, Who art all good and deserving of all my love. I firmly resolve with the help of thy grace to confess my sins, to do penance, and to amend my life. Amen.

Provincetown Air

Mercury Down, Traffic Up

Last week was one of the most active for aircraft of the Provincetown-Boston Airline in some time despite some of the most bitter weather experienced in the history of operations. The colder the day the more demand for transportation seemed to be the rule.

Special Flights

Saturday the airline made three round-trips to Boston and a Twin Cessna flight to Westerly, Rhode Island and return. Between Provincetown and Boston were Mrs. Gerald Hoefel, and Betty Van Arsdale, on one flight. Guests of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Murchison, Dr. Fillmore Sanford, Mrs. Alice Bryan, and Father John Stafford, were flown to Boston on a special flight about the middle of the morning while late in the afternoon Dr. James Leach of Orleans was flown on a special flight to Boston to connect with Eastern Air Lines to Jacksonville. From Boston to Provincetown passengers included Miss Kay Dwyer, Daniel Shea and Arthur Mooney.

She Was Warm

To Westerly with Pilot Norm Paulhus went Miss Ursula Maine to attend a wedding of relatives and then back to Provincetown after a few hours. To make sure Miss Maine would be warm airport personnel loaned her a pair of flying boots, some fleece lined gauntlets, and an extra robe. She was well wrapped up and reported an excellent trip.

Dies Few Hours Before Dedication Of Church Railing

Only a few hours before the service in which an attractive new altar railing recalling the long service of her late husband as rector of All Saints Episcopal church was dedicated, Mrs. Dorothy Rand Worman, widow of Rev. Alwin E. Worman, died yesterday in Baker Memorial hospital, Boston.

It had been the fond hope of Mrs. Worman, former school committee member here and long active in local church, musical and club affairs, that she would be able to attend the dedicatory service, which was held yesterday afternoon at 4 in the church which she had served for nearly 30 years as the wife of its rector.

News of her death was announced to a sorrowing congregation at the morning services in All Saints yesterday. To friends who had visited her in her last illness, Mrs. Worman had expressed ardent hope that she would be able to come to Attleboro for the day. She had been removed from her home at 26 Brewster st., Provincetown, to the Boston hospital on Oct. 2. Though in failing health for the past three years, she had carried on with most of her activities, including those of House Mother at the Psi Omega house at the University of New Hampshire, Durham, N. H.

Her funeral service will be held on Wednesday morning at 11 here and she will be buried in the family lot, beside her late husband in the cemetery at Provincetown.

Born in Dorchester nearly 62 years ago, she was the daughter of William R. and Annie V. (Crowell) Rand, both natives of Philadelphia. She was graduated from the College of Liberal Arts, Boston University, and took up duties as a teacher in Braintree for a short time before her marriage on Sept. 27, 1916 to Rev. Alwin E. Worman, who was then the young and newly-named rector of All Saints parish here.

As a newcomer in Attleboro, Mrs. Worman, by her eager assistance in the work of her husband and her charm of manner, quickly won a wide circle of friends not only within the parish but in the city at large. She was highly talented in the arts and music. She took a never-failing interest in the work of the parish and also found time to aid many students of the arts. She taught in local schools on occasion and becoming familiar with the system, used her knowledge to help promote the further expansion of educational facilities when she became a member of the school board, on which she served until the retirement of her husband. They then moved to Provincetown, each having a high interest in art, especially in color photography, which resulted in their production of some excellent series of educational and travel films. They had traveled much together, making pictures in many parts of Europe and this country.

Mrs. Worman was a member of All Saints Women's Auxiliary, the Esther Hinds circle and the Episcopalian club. She also was active in membership in the local D.A.R. chapter, the Chaminade, Round Table and North Purchase clubs, also the Woman's club. She worked hard in the Red Cross, serving as one of the directors of the canteen service.

She is survived by two brothers, Monroe Rand of Phoenix, Ariz. and Joseph Rand, also by a niece and two nephews in Arizona.

Rev. Robert Nicholson, pastor of All Saints Episcopal church, Barnstable, will officiate at the committal service and burial in Provincetown.
